1. The destroyer BURZA is still in the Paris Commune Shipyard in Gdynia. Her boilers were tested between 20 and 30 October 1953. The torpedo tubes have been dismantled; they are to be replaced by torpedo tubes of a Soviet type. One funnel of the warship has been dismantled and she now has only two funnels. Originally the idea was for the BURZA to have one funnel only, but this proved technically impossible. At the moment all the work on the BURZA is concentrated inside the ship; nothing is being done on deck.
2. The destroyer BLYSKAWICA and one submarine are also in the shipyard undergoing their annual overhaul. All work on overhaul is being carried out by naval personnel.
